

This drawing shows how the framework for the base skirt should look after it has been welded together but before any of the clearances have been cut in it.